Why Consider College?

A college degree can open doors and provide many opportunities. A college education means:

Enhanced Knowledge

A college education will increase a person's ability to understand developments in academia and in society, think abstractly and critically, express thoughts clearly in speech and in writing, and make wise decisions. These skills are useful both on and off the job. A college education also helps students learn how to think critically and analyze information.

Greater Potential

A college education can help increase a person's understanding of the community, the nation, and the world – as he or she explores interests, discovers new areas of knowledge, considers lifelong goals, and becomes a responsible citizen. A college education also provides greater knowledge of and appreciation for different ideas, philosophies, cultures and people.

A college education provides students with an increased network of references for a future career. What students do in college is as important as their grades because the contacts and friends they make will be the people who support them when they begin to look for a job.

Increased Job Opportunities

The world is changing rapidly. Many jobs rely on new technology and already require more brain power than muscle power. In a person's working life, more and more jobs will require education beyond high school. A college education will increase the number and variety of jobs from which a person can choose. A college degree is synonymous with higher income, a better standard of living and a more satisfying job.

More Money

Overall, a person who attends college earns more than a person who does not attend college.

The Admissions Essay

Along with your academic record and test scores, the admissions essay serves as another important aspect of your college application. It allows the admissions officer to see the personal side of you and how much you can contribute to the college or university.

Below are some suggestions to make your admissions essay successful:

- Answer the question. That's really important.
- Write naturally, but concisely.
- Use proper grammar and punctuation.
- Personalize your essay as much as possible. Allow your personality to shine through.
- Provide details to keep the story colorful. Use your normal, everyday vocabulary.
- Write about your own unique, funny, interesting experiences.
- Be honest.
- Tell a story in a relaxed, conversational style.
- Use humor.

- Convey a positive message (avoid cynicism).
- Write about topics you are passionate about.
- Use analogies to convey your message.
- Use logical paragraph breaks.
- Use the active voice.
- Use a large font that is easy to read.
- Proofread several times and get feedback from valued sources.

Avoid the following:

- Don't oversell yourself or try too hard.
- Don't rehash information that can be found elsewhere in the application package.
- Don't write a scholarly or overly academic paper.
- Don't appear overly idealistic or preachy. Avoid essays on "world peace."
- Don't try to explain blemishes on your record.
- Don't discuss dysfunctional family issues.
- Don't use trite, tired themes for the focus of the essay. Be original.
- Don't use large, pretentious words. Put away the thesaurus.
- Don't overuse adjectives.
- Don't be boring and monotonous.
- Don't be gimmicky.
